GO FOR LOCAL FOR VOCAL

In the last 70 years, we have not trusted our indigenous industries, resources and entrepreneurs. We did not trust ourselves. From 1950 onwards, we allowed development to take place through the public sector but when that failed, we took the route of globalisation after 1991. We handed the baton over to Foreign Direct Investments (FDI), multinational corporations and foreigners. This new system was capital-based. Monopolisation and capturing markets was priority. The growth that happened was jobless, faceless and ruthless. By allowing the import of subsidised Chinese goods, we invited job losses and economic inequalities within our own border, put several local industries out of business and made people dependent on government doles. Instead of nurturing them into valuable contributors to society.

PM Narendra Modi's push for self-reliance was a long time coming. It is time to revive those local industries that were taken for granted. It is time to usher in economic policies that produce welfare, sustainable incomes, help job creation and all in all, puts faith in the people. The sad state of our social sectors is also due to the lack of public expenditure on health and education, which is a side effect of the withdrawal of government from social sector, and handing over these welfare-enhancing sectors to private profiteers.

PM modi's message of being "local fo vocal" and "self-reliability" as the country emerges from the shadows of covid-19

'Be Indian Buy Indian' will encourage all Indians to buy 'made in India' products by using some specially curated creatives on the social media platforms, if followed it will help the country to rebuild it's economy and become self-reliant....

By leveraging social media platforms to promote awareness and by standing firmly behind the government of its efforts...
