place in all hospitals and health facilities,' a Home ministry spokesman said, quoting from the letter.

The states and UTs have also been asked to issue directions to concerned officials at various levels. Health facilities should be visited by field level officials to examine internal wirings and availability of functional safety equipment in accordance with fire safety guidelines within these facilities, and necessary remedial action be taken immediately in case any deficiencies are found, the ministry said.

The communication points out that a large number of COVID-19 cases are under treatment in ventilation, and ensuring it is important to ensure there is uninterrupted power supply 24x7 in all hospitals and medical facilities.

It also draws attention to a recent advisory from the Director General (Fire Services, Civil Defence and Home Guards), MHA, on fire safety in hospitals and nursing homes.

The communication further emphasises that saving every life is a priority, and it is critical to ensure that required support is provided to all health facilities managing COVID-19 by taking requisite actions in advance to avert any incident, which could hamper effective healthcare delivery to patients (PTI)
